Expandable Rifle Case

One gun case is all you need to carry everything from a 16-inch, collapsible stock, AR carbine to a 20-inch, fixed stock varmint rifle. Brownells has just released their Adjustable Length Rifle Case in Black (#084-000-326) and Coyote (#084-000-327 - shown). These cases adjust from an internal length of 25 1/2-inches up to 46-inches long. That's long enough for virtually every AR, FN/FAL or bolt action hunting rifle. At 14-inches tall, the case will accept a rifle with optics and a 30-round magazine in place. It's padded, soft-sided, and equipped with removable, padded nylon shoulder straps for easy backpack carry. Three rows of MOLLE straps allow easy attachment of magazine pouches or other accessories.

Bravo Rescue Knife

If you ever found yourself trying to get out of a seat belt in an emergency or cut yourself free from a dangling participle, the Bravo Rescue tactical knife from Buck Knives may be the handiest tool around. To start with, it features a Besh Wedge that offers a triple edge point design providing the user with a brute strength blade. The Rescue's handle end can be used as a glass breaker for tempered glass and includes a seat belt cutter. The Rescue will cut a harness with ease, an important bit of news for tree stand hunters who might find themselves in a tangle dangle.

ATN Paired With ACOG

The ATN PS22-3 Day/Night Tactical Kit with Trijicon 4x32 ACOG 1 QRM is the ultimate sportsman's dream by combining the ATN PS22-3 front sight with one of the best names in the daytime optical area—Trijicon. The PS22-3 uses ATN's standard 3rd generation image intensifier tubes (IIT). They have a micro channel plate, GAAs photocathode, and a completely self-contained integral high-voltage power supply. These 3rd generation tubes provide a combined increase in resolution, signal to noise and photosensitivity over tubes with a multi-alkali photocathode. Generation 3 is the standard for the USA military. Highlights of the 3rd generation specifications are the typical SNR of 22 and resolution of 64 lp/mm. MSRP - $5,494.

Innovative Headspace

Innovative Technologies has designed this new Digital Headspace Gauge that displays the exact measurement of chamber clearance (headspace). It works on any caliber from .22 Hornet to the 378 Weatherby. Now shooters can adjust their dies perfectly for their particular chamber or duplicate the specs of factory ammunition. It doesn't get easier than this. This patented tool provides longer case life, improved accuracy, and it doesn't require using "other" special tools or bushings.
